

Investment Strategy

The investment strategy of the LOYS Philosophie Bruns Fund may generally be categorized as "Long/Short Equity, long biased". Our edge is the identification and exploitation of undervalued stocks on the international developed equity markets. Our investment universe thereby is not limited to specific countries or sectors; in principle any stock exchange traded company all around the world can be a potential investment. On basis of a fundamental bottom-up analysis, the fund will trade equity that is significantly undervalued. We demand a margin of safety and do not enter a new position until we have identified a high-quality share that trades with at least 30% discount to its fair value. The foremost criteria for the portfolio composition is the absolute attraction of the traded company itself, which is measured by the degree of the undervaluation that we have identified. The composition of the fund solely depends on the number and the attraction of the available equity that meet our requirements. Accordingly, the fund does not have to be fully invested on the equity markets: whenever the portfolio manager considers that no or not enough investment opportunities are meeting our criteria described above, the fund holds cash.

Fund Management Commentary

In the lovely month of May, the LOYS Philosophie Bruns fund posted a net asset value gain of approximately 2%. The month began amid fears of a new oil crisis. Rising inflation rates and falling bond prices reflect these concerns. The stock markets, however, particularly in the U.S., appeared largely unfazed by these macroeconomic concerns. Given the high weightings of a few select stocks, fossil fuel stocks do not play a prominent role in the markets. Instead, so-called technology stocks are leading the way, and this sector has reported strong corporate earnings. Accordingly, U.S. stocks reached new record highs. LOYS Philosophie Bruns established initial positions in Lululemon, Abercrombie & Fitch, Tencent, EPAM Systems, and Daiichi Sankyo. In return, some Nokia shares were sold at a profit.

Important Information:

<sup>1</sup>The gross value development (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, the management fee) with the exception of any front-end load that may be incurred (this is otherwise marked separately). Additional costs may be incurred individually at customer level (e.g. custody account fees, commissions and other fees). Model calculation (net): One investor would like to purchase units for EUR 1000. With a maximum initial sales charge of 5%, he or she must spend a one-off of EUR 50. Additionally, custody account costs may be incurred which affect the performance of the portfolio reduce the deposit costs. The custody account costs result from the price and service list of your Bank.
